

NICOLA BIENATI

I received the M.Sc. in Telecommunication Engineering and the Ph.D. in Electronic and Communication Engineering from Politecnico di Milano, in 1998 and 2002, respectively. I have been working at Eni since 2002 and since then I have mainly dealt with the development of seismic imaging technologies and their application in HPC computing environments. I have made some publications on these topics, you can find most of them in the EAGE and SEG libraries. I am currently senior global advisor for geophysics at Eni.